

Date: September 5, 2017
Unique Visitors: 710,327

---

Chic in the City: New York Fashion Week

It's no secret that New Yorkers dress to impress. From glam to grunge, all it takes is one stroll through SoHo to get a taste of the eclectic style this city exudes.

Along with Paris, Milan and London, the city-that-never-sleeps is one of the four major fashion-forward destinations that host semi-annual fashion weeks.

The much anticipated New York Fashion Week will be held September 7-14, 2017. Whether or not you're dying to see the latest Tom Ford designs or the outrageous concepts Kanye West has in store for attendees, chances are this posh week will be one to remember.

From the photogs and bloggers to the aspiring models and style aficionados, we've rounded up the hottest New York City spots to eat, drink and be fashionable during this high energy, star-studded week.

Put on your snazziest outfit and get ready for the spotlight, because you never know who you'll run in to.

Tender

The Sanctuary Hotel is home to Tender, a hot spot known for its hearty steaks and innovative selection of sushi. Looking to casually bump into some celebs? Keep an eye out for Olivia Munn, Joe Jonas and Kristin Cavallari, all of whom have been spotted here.

The menu features indulgent bites such as avocado fries and baked crab hand rolls. For your main course, opt for the Mahi Mahi with spinach, enoki mushrooms and miso broth or the tender wagyu burger with aged cheddar, sautéed onions and fries.